

Expedited Reinstatement of Benefits

What is EXR?

If your benefits ended because you worked and had earnings, you can request that your benefits start again without having to complete a new application. Plus, while being determined whether you can get benefits again, you can receive provisional (temporary) benefits for up to 6 months.

Are you eligible?

If you are an SSDI or SSI beneficiary who:

- Stopped receiving benefits because of earnings from work
- Are unable to work or perform substantial gainful activity
- Are disabled because of an impairment(s) that is the same as or related to the impairment(s) that allowed you to get benefits earlier
- Make the request within 5 years from the month your benefits ended
